conversations

26 Changing Minds about the Brain
Imaging studies demonstrate incontrovertibly the brain changes that are associated with psychiatric disease, says Nora Volkow, MD, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse.
Gina Pera interviews Nora Volkow, MD

28 Identifying Treatments, Addressing Stigma
Knowledge won't be enough to reduce negative attitudes about mental illness, says Berkeley's Stephen Hinshaw, PhD. Even more important are contact, empathy, and antidiscrimination policies.
