FOCUS: ASSESSMENT, TREATMENT, AND MEDICATION

14 Stimulant Medications and Heart Monitoring

A member of CHADD's professional advisory board addresses the issue of whether physicians should perform cardiovascular examinations before prescribing medications for AD/HD and offers guidance on interpreting mixed messages about medical treatments.

by Andrew Adesman, MD

18 Dealing with Denial

Part one of this series explored the biological nature of denial. Part two gives you practical strategies for reaching through your loved one's "refusal" to acknowledge AD/HD symptoms.

by Gina Pera

22 Lidiando con la Negación

La primera parte de esta serie exploró la naturaleza biológica de la negación. En la segunda parte aprenderá algunas estrategias prácticas para abordar la "negativa" de su ser querido para admitir los síntomas del TDA/H.

28 An American Family: Two Siblings Work to Fix a Broken System

AD/HD is underdiagnosed and undertreated among African Americans. One New Orleans family understands firsthand the potentially tragic difference between treating the disorder and falling through the cracks in our mental healthcare system. Addressing disparities has become their cause.
